X-Oven will bring a new product, designed for enclosed spaces in professional kitchens, to HostMilano

X-Oven, company that produces and commercializes worldwide professional charcoal ovens with an innovative removable lateral grill drawer system, will be present at this year's edition of HOST, Milan's professional hospitality show, to be held at FieraMilano in Rho from October 20 to 24

The first alternative to traditional charcoal ovens with just a front hatch, X-Oven is an exclusive innovation born of Italian ingenuity perfected in Switzerland and protected by an international patent. X-Oven will welcome visitors at stand S03 in Pavilion 5, to present its products and its new XOven. 2, a version with two grill drawers that combines a small footprint and productivity in a professional product that's safe and easy to use for the most demanding chefs.

X-Oven.2 features a grill drawer closest to the brazier tray that's a full 15 cm high, tall enough to insert one or more grills at different heights inside. It also has a 10 cm tall upper grill. Designed for enclosed spaces in professional kitchens, X-OVEN is the only charcoal oven with grill drawers available in three models: with one, two or three grill drawers. In its presentation designed to let food lovers discover the company's products, X-Oven will be featuring charcoal cuisine tasting presentations, just like last edition.
